NEW YORK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16, 1871. The dry goods trade is daily getting more excited. The crisis had not passed when the other day, the leading jobbers combined, under a penalty of $5,000 each, not to "cut" prices, etc. Now, prices are being advanced rapidly, at law, or in equity having been instituted for on the strength of that "union" and the question to be decided is, will buyers all over the country meekly submit to "union" prices, or country meekly submit to "union" prices, or will they seek jobbers not in the union, and get the best terms they can? There was no doubt the best terms they can? There was no doubt four south, range four een west, and bounded four south, range four een west, and bounded some corrective needed for "cutting," but, with raw cotton on the decline and labor not advancing, and trade dull, it is not so easy to see the reason why an advance of 10 per cent on fabrics would take place. If retailers will buy only as they actually need, the abuses which the combination are likely to make of their power will be lessened. The absence of that facilitates trade like seasonable weather. The outlook, however, is flattering. If lumber dealers and builders are not far astray in their love tor him, we will, as a body, attend the fune- guesses. 1872 is to be a busy season in their respective lines. Lumber has been steady in price since the close of navigation. That prices have not advanced is attributed to the early start which the men in the pineries obtained and the extraordinary, and to a considerable degree successful, efforts making to get out a large crop of logs. In live stock we have had an irregular week; cattle were plenty, but the prices unsatisfactory to sellers.
